Emergency Funds

Globally we have seen how communities across the world are uniting to support those most at risk of this current public health crisis. GoFundMe’s have been set up, resources and mutual aid networks have been organized and people are reaching out to support their communities and communities around the world. We have a few links to share for resources. It is not exhaustive of the many international efforts going on worldwide and we encourage you to take action both globally and locally to support the efforts of the groups you care about , and those on the frontlines of this pandemic and the climate crisis. So please consider giving to grassroots groups wherever you live who are working to meet the needs of their communities.
